The National Institute of Corrections will host a live, 8-hour broadcast designed to provide training directors and curriculum developers with the tools and resources needed to perform at a superior level. This broadcast will air for 4-hours each day on October 31, 2007, and November 1, 2007.

Day One will present the best of what is currently available for curriculum developers. During this 4-hour broadcast, you will preview various elements of NIC's self-directed DVD learning tool entitled Training Design and Development, which includes the elements of successful curriculum design and a demonstration of how to address the four learning styles in every aspect of curriculum development to increase the participants learning experience.

Day Two will focus on the roles of a training director, training coordinator, or training manager. During this 4-hour broadcast, you will learn how to use NIC's new self-directed DVD learning tool. The DVD includes topics such as the role of a training director, elements of a training budget, conducting a needs assessment, and training evaluation strategies.

The objectives of this 8-hour program are to:

- Review and explain how both DVDs can be used for training and individual development.
- Learn what is needed to be a professional correctional training director and/or curriculum developer.
- Explore how to use the DVD series in whole, or in part, to enhance your staff's curriculum development skills.
- Share information on resources for training directors including the NIC Training Directors' Network.

This broadcast is available without charge to any agency or facility nationwide with access to the Internet or a satellite dish or downlink (both analog C-Band and digital KU-Band transponders). If your agency does not have its own satellite dish, check to see if a local college, federal prison, or hotel in your area has a downlinked meeting room. If you cannot find a site locally or need information on viewing the broadcast using the Internet, then please contact Ed Wolahan (telephone 303-365-4419 or e-mail ewolahan@bop.gov) for assistance.

Participating sites that register by October 29, 2007, will be able to download satellite coordinates and Internet access information as well as the Site Coordinator and Participant Guides, and recommended reading materials from NIC's web site at www.nicic.org/Broadcasts. Local site coordinators should download and make copies of the Participant Guide for each participant. It is suggested that participants download the recommended reading material for their own information. Coordinators are strongly encouraged to convene their groups at least one hour before broadcast time and to continue discussions after the broadcast.
